READ — READ THIS PASSAGE CAREFULLY. YOU MAY READ IT TWICE.

Famous music stars have busy schedules. They must tell time to practice, perform, and travel. A star's day starts early in the morning. Many singers practice at 9 o'clock. They sing scales and warm up their voices for two hours. At noon, they take a lunch break. After lunch, music stars rehearse with their bands. They work together from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock. The band learns new songs and fixes any mistakes. When evening arrives, the stars perform on stage. Concerts usually start at 7 o'clock at night. Thousands of fans come to watch and listen. After the show ends at 9 o'clock, the stars are tired but happy. Music stars use clocks and watches all day long. Telling time helps them remember when to practice, eat, and perform for their fans.
